HOME AGAIN. EAGER CITIZENS.

His Restoration to the Family Circle.

in the Juvenile Asylum.

His Discovery that "The Evening World "Was Fighting His Cause.

Principal and Teachers of Grammar School 82 Want Him Back There.

There is not a happier boy in New York than Heyman Shapire, who was unjustly detained in the New York Juvenile Asylum, and whose return to the home of his parents has been brought about by THE EVENING WORLD.

When a reporter of THE EVENING WORLD called at the Shapiro home, at 324 East Sixtyfirst street, last evening. Heyman had just been brought from the institution.

He had been calling upon his old acquaint-ances and the friends of the family, all of whom were overjoyed to see him again after his long absence, for he was a favorite with every one. It would be hard to find a brighter or morwide-awake looking lad than Heyman, and in his new suit of clothes and a cap with a gold band around it he was the envy of all his old playmates and the pride of his parents, who could scarcely keep their eyes off him for an in-

"Well, Heyman, you must be glad to get back among your friends again," said the re-

"Indeed I am, "replied the boy, promptly. let me out of that place.

DIDN'T LIKE THE ANYLUM. "Then you did not enjoy it at the Asylum?" "No, I should say not. They don't have much to say to the boys up there. No one ever spoke to me except the other boys, and I did not like many of them. They are a rough set."

NEVER HEARP FROM HOME.

"Did you never hear from your parents?"
"Not once while I was there. My mother tells me she wrote to me twice, but I never got either of hir letters. I suppose they kept them."
"What did you do to pass away the time?" WORKED IN THE TAILOR SHOP.

Worked in the tailor shop.

"Oh, they made me work every day. All the boys do that. They put me at work in the tailor-shop, Once or twice I asked the man who was ever us if he would find out something for me about my mother and father, but he told me they never did that.

"After I had been there a month I began to get very disheartened. Last Saturday some of the boys who used to see the papers that one of the men there took, came to me and asked me if my mame wasn't Shapiro, and I fold them it was.

Saw an "Evenino would."

"Then they said: There's a big, long string about you in The Evenino Would, and you are going to get out. The Judge is going to have you in court axain. I had been down to court on Tuesday with the Superintendent, and I thought they were going to let me go then. But they didn't, and I didn't even see my parents.

"Then I wanted to get the paper and read it for myself, but the man would not give it to me. On Sunday one of the boys got hold of it and brought it to me and I read the whole story that was in The Evenino Would.

NEWS OF HIS MOTHER'S EICKNESS.

"When I read that my mother was so sick it made me feel worse than before, and I was afraid that she was going to die. I had a pretty hard time of it on that day and on Monday, for I did not hear anything more and didn't know how things were coming out."

"Then you were surprised to see your father and mother yesterday?"

SURPRISED AT HIS BELEASE.

SURPRISED AT BIS BELEASE.

"I could hardly believe it when I was told that they had come for me, and that I must get ready to go away."

"What are you going to do now?"

"I don't know yet whether I shall go back to school or look for a position somewhere."
Here airs, Shapire spoke up and said that she was determined that Heyman should finish his schooling. He had only one year more after time, for he was now in the second class of the grammar school at Seventieh street and First avenue and they would try and get along somehim so that Heyman should receive his education.

WANTED BACK AT SCHOOL. The first persons to welcome Heyman after his return were Principal George E. Hardy and his assistant. Mr. Moritz, of Grammar School 82, which the lad had attended for the past three Years.

They both insisted that he should come back to school and finish his course, for he was one of the brightest scholars in the class. BETMAN PREFERS TO WORK.

Heyman wants to do so, but although he is small for his age he thinks he is old enough to courribute to the support of his parents, and he told the reporter that he could write well both in English and German, and he thought he knew enough about figures to be at a to go into business. enough about figures with they man, "because I didn't care to waste my time playing around the streets with the other boys, and I thought I ought to be doing something for my parents."

HE NEVER BEGGED.

"They say at the Asylum, Heyman, that you were sent out to beg."
"If they say that they lie," replied the boy, with a touch of indignation and pride in his tone. "I never begged in my life, and my parents would never let me do such a thing. I would do anything before I would ask a cent from anybody."

The Shapiros have many friends, and the reporter was toud that means would undoubtedly be provided to enable Heyman to finish his contrast the Grammar School.

Mrs. Shapiro, although still feeble, has brightened up wonderfully since Heyman's return, and her husband has gone to work at his cobbling again with redoubled energy. He has always been able to make a living for his family, and says he means to show his friends that he can do so still.

The Isman Racer Bea's the Teutonic for the Third Time.

The Inman line steamship City of New York has again for the third time defeated the White Star steamship Tentonic in a race across the Atlantic to Queenstown.

Despatches were received at the offices of the Inman and White Star lines in this city this morning stating that the City of New York arrived at Roche's Point, off Queenstown, at 5.24 this morning, and that the Teutonic arrived at the Point at 7.43.

The City of New York passed Sandy Hook at 11.38 A. M., Oct. 16, and the Teutonic at 12.08 P. M. This makes the City of New York's running time 6 days, 12 hours and 46 minutes. and the Teutonic's 6 days, 14 hours, 37 min-ntes. The City of New York therefore arrived at Roche's Point I hour and 51 minutes ahead of the Teutonic.

The City of New York's daily runs were 369,
350, 407, 430, 434, 427 and 315 mies.

The City of New York has beaten the present record, and the Teutonic has made the voyage in a previous race with the City of New York in six days, six hours and twenty-nine minutes.

The sixter ship of the City of New York, the City of Paris, still holds the record—five days, nineteen hours and eighteen minutes.
